

Agnew's Trip Demonstrates Ambiguities Of Nixon Doctrine

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's second Asian trip has demonstrated ambiguities inherent in the Nixon Far East doctrine while strengthening Agnew's stature as a foreign policy spokesman on the eve of the congressional campaign.

In Korea and Formosa, the vice president showed that, where conditions permit, administration policy stands quite close to the view of the Senate doves—Agnew's favorite political targets—that U.S. overseas commitments must be reduced.

But in the key areas of Vietnam and Cambodia Agnew's week-long, five-nation trip served to re-emphasize the U.S. Southeast Asian commitment.

Agnew made clear in talking with newsmen he will give the President an optimistic report later this week on the working of the Nixon Doctrine, the policy announced on Guam a year ago which combines reduction of American forces and increased Asian self-help with a reaffirmation of U.S. treaty commitments.

What if the North Vietnamese launch a renewed, all-out assault, in either Cambodia or Vietnam itself, once U.S. troops are reduced to purely a backup and logistic force?

On this front, Agnew showed considerable optimism. He told reporters on the way to Hawaii that more than half the enemy forces in Cambodia "have been eliminated" and said the slow-down of fighting in Vietnam indicates their inability to mount a major drive.

Yet, he emphasized that the United States will do everything it can to prevent a Communist takeover of Cambodia, viewing this as a direct threat to the security of U.S. troops in Vietnam and, perhaps more importantly, to the Nixon administration's troop withdrawal plans.

Coming as it did just before Agnew takes to the political stump as the chief administration campaigner to overthrow Democratic control of Congress, the trip had its inevitable political overtones.

Although Agnew started by denying there was any connection, he ended up by telling the Thais he would make efforts by antiwar senators to curb U.S.

actions in Southeast Asia a major campaign target.

But in both Korea and Formosa, Agnew's account of his talks indicated a reluctance to accept those nations' fears of imminent Communist attack that should have delighted the Senate doves. So should his assertions that the administration is emphasizing domestic priorities and a worsening budgetary bind.

Yet he also told leaders in both countries that the United States would come to their aid if attacked, as provided in mutual security treaties, presumably relying on air and naval power.

In Southeast Asia, Agnew took just the opposite tack: That the danger of a Communist takeover remains real and the United States has no intention of leaving until those countries are able to defend themselves.

South Continues To Fight Orders On Integration

ATLANTA (AP) — Thousands of schools across the South begin classes this week under orders decreeing the end of dual school systems. But attempts to combat federally forced racial integration continue.

The latest effort came Sunday with the formation of the National Coalition of Concerned Citizens, a group of state organizations claiming more than a million members in 27 states.

Representatives of the coalition from North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Arkansas and Texas gathered in Atlanta and disclosed plans to mount a campaign against busing, zoning and pairing of schools.

Fund Started

A part of the campaign, spokesmen said, will be the establishment of a "Legal Defense Fund," to compete in the courts with the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"We are all through reacting to what other people do. We are going on the offensive," said Ellis Rubin, a Miami Beach, Fla., attorney.

Dr. Mitchell Young of Texas said that although persons from only seven states attended the meeting, those present represented states other than their own.

A second meeting of the coalition is scheduled Sept. 12 at Norfolk, Va.

The group announced it is seeking an immediate meeting with President Nixon, whose administration says this fall will bring the most meaningful school desegregation in the South since the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision which outlawed assignment of pupils by race.

Seek Rulings

Spokesmen said the coalition will attempt to impress its views upon the President and seek his assistance in having the Supreme Court.

—Hand down in specific terms the definition of a unitary school system.

—Rule on the question of whether either the Constitution or existing statutory law requires a mathematical balance of the races in schools. Rubin said the organization is hopeful that the Justice Department will raise those question in a scheduled Oct. 12 hearing before the high court on an appeal of a court-ordered plan for Charlotte, N.C. The plan requires the busing of 13,000 to 17,000 pupils.

The Charlotte case has been considered a pivotal one on the issue of busing. School officials there postponed school opening until Sept. 9, but Chief Justice Warren E. Burger declined to issue a stay of implementation of the plan as they had hoped.

GOP Patches Split, Adopts Goals For 70s

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Republicans swung into their fall election campaign today after patching up a threatened factional split and endorsing a platform that should cause little embarrassment to the party hierarchy.

At the state nominating convention in Detroit this weekend, delegates fought only one real battle.

They handed Sen. Emil Lockwood a narrow 800-790 vote victory in his fight with Rep. Weldon O. Yeager for the secretary of state nomination.

Lockwood will face Democrat Richard H. Austin, the black Wayne County auditor who ran unsuccessfully for mayor of Detroit, in November.

Major conservative districts from the Detroit area backed Lockwood, leading some to question the former senate majority leader's connection with them.

State GOP chairman William McLaughlin and other officials said, however, they saw "no philosophical implications" in the Lockwood - Yeager race that took nearly two hours of vote-tallying and switching to complete on the floor.

Durant Withdraws

Milliken won easy convention endorsement of former U.S. Atty. James Brickley of Detroit as his running mate - but only after Richard Durant, leader of conservative forces on the convention floor, withdrew his name from contention.

Before doing that, however, Durant won a wide grin and warm handshake from Milliken and U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin when he urged conservatives to work within the Republican Party rather than attempt to form a third party.

Durant's call to conservatives to "recognize that the Republican Party is your home" stabbed at the credibility of a third-party move bandied about earlier in the week by conservative State Sen. Robert Huber of Troy.

Huber Attends

Huber, who narrowly lost the GOP U.S. Senate nomination to Lenore Romney in the primary, filed papers for forming the Conservative Party of Michigan and said he had "known for six years there was no place for a conservative in the Republican Party."

Huber attended the convention briefly, but there was no repeat of his earlier show of strength against Mrs. Romney. Milliken and McLaughlin delighted in prodding at Democrats for their ill-fated party platform resolution calling for amnesty for Vietnam protesters.

"That was weak leadership and Michigan doesn't need that kind of leadership," said Milliken, whose own top aides closely supervised construction of the cautiously evasive GOP platform.

Soviet Fishing Under Protest

SEATTLE (AP) — Hundreds of American and Canadian fishermen tied up their boats in Pacific Coast harbors for the weekend to protest Russian and Asiatic fishing along the continental shelf.

About 1,400 U.S. boats were idled at Washington and Oregon ports during the protest, which began Friday night. Another 400 pulled into Victoria, B.C. By Sunday most boats had gone to sea again, however.

The commercial fishermen, including those in Alaska, contend that Russian, South Korean and Japanese vessels are operating within the territorial 12-mile limits of the United States and Canada.

American fishermen are backing the demand of their Canadian colleagues who want adoption of a 200-mile territorial limit.

Canadian Fisheries Minister Jack Davis met with a 16-member fishermen's delegation Saturday night in Victoria and said the fishermen would have an active role in negotiations with Soviet officials starting Sept. 21 in Ottawa.

60 Hurt, 185 Jailed In Los Angeles Riot

Peace Certain, Nixon Asserts

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)

— President Nixon said today that "so far as the United States involvement is concerned in Vietnam, peace is certain."

He referred, in a taped television interview for today's CBS Morning News, to the program of withdrawing U.S. troops and replacing them with South Vietnamese.

The President also expressed the view that there is "some hope" for the Middle East situation now that a cease-fire has been called. He played down suggestions at this time for a U.S.-Soviet peace-keeping force in the area.

Nixon said he would predict nothing and expect nothing as Hanoi's chief negotiator Xuan Thuy returns to the Paris peace talks Thursday.

No New Initiatives

There are no new U.S. initiatives, Nixon said, but "we are in a very flexible negotiating position" and "now we shall see whether the other side is interested in one too."

The interview was filmed at the Western White House Saturday.

Asked whether he thought chances for peace were better in the Middle East or Southeast Asia, Nixon declined to speculate.

Before the cease-fire, Nixon remarked, the Middle East situation "had no hope; since the cease-fire, it has some hope." He cautioned against being overly optimistic, saying differences and passions going back thousands of years "are not settled quickly."

Made Some Progress

"However, as far as we are concerned, we believe we have made some progress," he said. "Because, after all, there is a cease-fire. People aren't being killed now. And as long as that goes on, it looks better than it was."

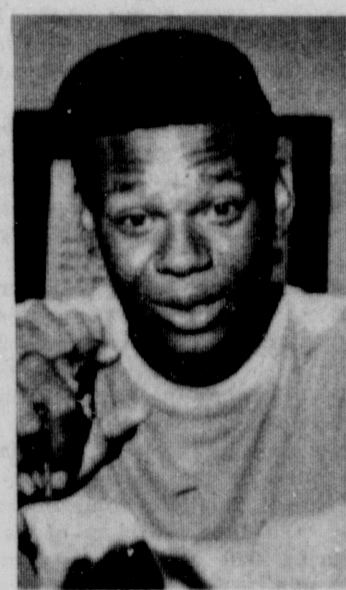

Nixon was asked about a suggestion mentioned by high administration officials at a Western White House briefing for new executives last week of the possibility of a U.S.-Soviet military force under United Nations auspices to keep the Middle East peace.

"I would not comment on it at this time," the President said, adding:

"I do not believe that suggestions of that type, well intentioned as they are, are going to be particularly helpful at a time when the Jarring mission is going forward."

He referred to the Israeli-Arab talks being conducted at the United Nations by Ambassador Gunnar Jarring.

Nixon has scheduled a general review of the Middle East situation at the Western White House Tuesday with State and Defense departments, Central Intelligence and military chiefs represented.

School Contract Settlement Pace Quickens In State

By The Associated Press

There are indications that the stormy contract disputes of a year ago will not be duplicated in many Michigan school districts, according to a teachers' union leader.

"Settlements are coming in fast now," says George Brown, an assistant executive secretary of the Michigan Education Association which represents most union teachers in the state.

Throughout the state there are 156 school systems without master contracts with their teachers, compared to 194 at this time a year ago, Brown said.

Trapeze Star Critically Hurt

DETROIT (AP) — A daredevil trapeze acrobat was in critical condition today after he fell while swinging from the top of a 105-foot pole at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit Sunday.

Sandor Biro, 33, a Hungarian now living in Sarasota, Fla., was flung 250 feet through the air, witnesses said.

He was rushed from the State Fair racetrack by ambulance to Providence Hospital in nearby Southfield, where authorities were unable to immediately describe the extent of his injuries.

However, State Fair spokesmen said they were told the X-rays "didn't look good" and police said Biro suffered head, back and internal injuries.

Biro was performing out of doors before a grand stand crowd of 7,000 when the incident occurred about 10 p.m.

Pro-Con Slates Top Viet Voting

SAIGON (AP) — A moderate, pro-government slate and one backed by the opposition An Quang Buddhist faction were leading today in first returns from South Vietnam's senatorial elections.

The three top 10-man tickets will run election, making up half of the 60-member senate.

Sixteen slates made the race.

In first place was the pro-government ticket headed by Sen. Huynh Van Cao, a former general, with 708,607 votes. The An Quang ticket, headed by Vu Van Mau, had 629,288. In third place was the slate of Sen. Nguyen Van Huyen, the senate president, with 549,682 votes.

Despite more than 60 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks which killed 55 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 140, the government said 4.3 million votes were cast. That was two-thirds of the registered voters.

The An Quang faction boycotted the 1967 elections which brought in the present government of President Nguyen Van Thieu and the current senate.

Traditionally, the An Quang Buddhists have been militantly anti-government. In the campaign, the slate demanded "instant peace," and the abolition of "illiteracy, corruption, hunger, disunity, and dictatorship," which it said tends to encourage the growth of communism.

Its leader, Vu Van Mau, was foreign minister under President Ngo Dinh Diem.

One Man Dead, Damage Heavy To Businesses

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first full-scale riot in this city since the Watts holocaust of 1965 has left one person dead, more than 60 injured, 185 jailed and 178 businesses vandalized or looted.

Property damage estimates range up to $1 million.

Authorities and spokesmen for the peaceful Mexican-American antiwar parade and rally that preceded the violence Saturday disagreed on how and why the trouble started.

Chanting "Chicano power" and "Viva la Raza" (long live the people), a cheerful crowd variously estimated at 7,000 to 20,000 had marched three miles on a hot afternoon through East Los Angeles, a rundown community where one million Mexican-Americans live.

Trouble Erupts

Mexican-Americans had come from many states to protest the war and make public their claim that proportionately more Chicanos die in Vietnam than members of other groups, spokesmen said.

Trouble erupted Sunday night in the Wilmington section, 20 miles south of downtown Los Angeles. Police said about 500 Mexican-Americans touched off several fires in a 12-block area, pitched rocks and hurled bottles. Some arrests were made.

At Riverside, 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, four policemen were shot Sunday night in an ambush during a search of a Mexican-American neighborhood for persons suspected for throwing firebombs earlier in the day. None of the officers was seriously injured, authorities said.

Range Streets

For 4½ hours small hit-and-run groups ranged down the main street, Whittier Boulevard, smashing windows, looting and burning. Authorities said fire damaged seven buildings.

Most of the injuries, including those of 28 law officers, were minor.

Two persons were reported in critical condition.

Killed was Ruben Salazar, 42, a Mexican-American newsman who had been covering the parade as news director of a Spanish-language television station and columnist for the Los Angeles Times.

Sheriff's spokesmen said a 10-inch long bullet-like tear gas projectile fired into a bar hit Salazar in the head.

UAW Won't Be Intimidated, Sept. 15 Walkout Threatened

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock says his union will not be intimidated by threats of lockouts or prolonged strikes in its new contract bargaining with the Big Three automakers.

Woodcock said there has been speculation in eastern financial circles that General Motors, Ford and Chrysler would lock-out the UAW in event any one of them is struck and despite the union's $120 million strike fund to stave off an expensive settlement.

"Well, we're not a corporation," Woodcock said. "When we're out of money, we're not out of business."

"We're perfectly capable of running an old-fashioned strike and winning in the old-fashioned way."

Must Meet Demands

In the latter statement he was referring to early day UAW strikes when there was no strike fund to alleviate economic pains of members who walked out.

Woodcock said Sunday the Big Three must meet all major new contract demands or a strike will begin Sept. 15 against one of them.

He predicted General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will make identical economic offers Tuesday and said his union would attempt once again to break what he called their "lockstep approach". Woodcock added, "The odds look as if we will not."

The Big Three previously announced they will make settlement offers Tuesday, the first since new contract bargaining began in mid-July. Current three-year pacts expire at midnight Sept. 14.

"Price Of Peace"

Woodcock told a meeting of some 3,000 of UAW Ford Local's 36,000 members any new contract must restore an unlimited cost-of-living wage escalator, declaring: "That's the price of peace in this industry."

UAW Vice President Ken Ban-

non, echoed Woodcock on the cost-of-living requirement, saying: "That has to be in there before we leave the bargaining table without a strike."

Woodcock also told the cheering unionists that the companies "have got to meet that," in referring to another union demand, which would permit retirement on a minimum $500 monthly pension after 30 years service, regardless of age.

The UAW chief also told the Local 600 rally, which included many retirees, that the companies are going "to have to show compassion and concern for their former employees or they're going to have a hell of a time setting on anything else."

Woodcock made this remark after saying he had been advised courts had held in a case now under appeal that unions could not bargain for former employees. UAW demands include one to raise pensions of retirees and tie them in the future to the government's cost of living index.

Want Wage Boost

Woodcock also emphasized the union's demand for "a substantial wage increase" on top of a 26-cent hourly increase which goes into effect under current contracts Sept. 15.

That 26 cents is the difference between what workers would have received under a continued unlimited and quarterly adjusted cost-of-living wage escalator and the 16 cents — eight in each of the last two years — they got under present contract limitations.

Woodcock took notice of some published reports that the automakers are considering an industrywide lockout in the event one of them is struck, but said: "I don't think they're going to be that foolish."

He urged Local 600 members to vote Monday and Tuesday to authorize negotiators to call a strike against Ford, if and when they deem one advisable.

"When we strike GM," Woodcock said the companies know the union's big, $120 million strike fund would be gone in less than seven weeks. He hastily added, however, "I'm not saying we will strike GM, but I am saying we're not afraid to."

To Pick Target

He contended the UAW "is perfectly capable of running an old fashioned strike and winning the old fashioned way." He meant without money.

The union will pick one of the Big Three as a target for winning a pattern — setting settlement after the companies make their economic offers, and drive for a contract there by strike or otherwise.

Target — picking likely will come Wednesday or Thursday, following a Wednesday meeting of GM, Ford and Chrysler national councils in Detroit. Councils are made up of local union delegates from across the country.

The companies have given no indication what their offers will contain, but they have taken a tough stance against restoration of an unlimited cost-of-living formula and have insisted publicly that wages have been outstripping production gains in recent years.

They have also insisted that any settlement must be non-inflationary and that any amount exceeding production gains would be inflationary.

Big Bay Schools May Not Open On Tuesday

It appeared unlikely today that schools will open Tuesday for the 600 youngsters in the Big Bay de Noc district. Supt. of Schools Frank Stupak said today that the teachers association rejected the latest offer by the Board of Education last Saturday and "are withholding their services" until contract negotiations are completed.

Radio System Links Officers

A new radio system linking the Gladstone Post of the Michigan State Police with the Department of Natural Resources district headquarters in Escanaba is expected to strengthen law enforcement efforts in the area, police supervisors said today.

The radio hookup ties the State Police radio to the DNR transmitter through a new Michigan Bell Telephone Co. cable, said Robert Timmer, Escanaba district law supervisor for the DNR, and Sgt. Richard VanSipe, commander of the Gladstone Post.

Timmer said the hookup will provide communication between the two departments for law enforcement. He said it also will strengthen coordination of the two departments in cases of hunting accidents, lost hunters, car-deer accidents, etc. The State Police post at Gladstone will be able to talk directly to DNR officers in the field through the tie-in with the DNR transmitter.

In addition, the officers said, the post and DNR headquarters have been linked through a direct-line intercom unit.

The equipment is designed to give the law agencies 24-hour communications seven days a week. State Police officers on desk at the post will be able to communicate with DNR officers in the field even during late evening or early morning hours when the DNR headquarters is not staffed, Timmer pointed out.

Although the areas of dispute were not defined, Stupak said the main problem is not one of salary schedules.

The differences are believed to be concerned with fringe benefits and wording of the master contract.

Not Too Serious

Jon Haindl, teaching negotiating committee chairman, said the dispute is "not too serious and there is a good possibility we can get together."

The two groups will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Nahma School in an attempt to settle their differences. This will be the first meeting between the teachers and the entire board. Negotiations have been underway between the teachers committee and the superintendent since last spring.

Big Bay operates two elementary schools at Cooks and Garden and a high school in Nahma. The enrollment is drawn from an area including Garden, Nahma, Fayette, Fairport, Isabella and Cooks.

The are 27 teachers working in the system.

Out Last Year

Last year the Big Bay de Noc schools were closed for 17 school days during November and December before contract differences were resolved.

Classes in most Upper Peninsula districts began this morning, but contract problems have delayed the opening in several districts, including Rapid River.

Ross Rhodes, Rapid River Education Association president, announced this morning that a fact finder will be assigned to study the Rapid River school dispute today.

As soon as the fact finder is assigned by the Michigan Employment Relations Commission the exact time and place of the hearing will be announced to the public.

Because of the delayed opening of school at Rapid River, all of the school's teachers are meeting at the Congregational Church Hall during regular school hours.

The North Dickinson County School District, which was scheduled to begin classes today, is out and a meeting has been scheduled tonight by the North Dickinson Board of Education to outline the fact finder's report.

Tax Bind

PONTIAC (AP) — Charles McQueen has been given two weeks notice that his $19,000-a-year job with the City of Pontiac will be eliminated because of the falling city revenues. McQueen is the city's income tax director.

James McCormick, a Traverse City lawyer acting as the state appointed fact finder, met in a five-hour session Saturday with the negotiating committees of the North Dickinson Education Association and the Board of Education. His findings were given, over the phone, to Superintendent Stewart Oja and Daniel Nyiund, NDEA president.

The board will make a decision on McCormick's findings tonight and then meet with the Education Association and Walter Quillico of Iron Mountain, state mediator, following the board meeting.

If a settlement is reached, the Education Association members will vote Tuesday morning at Felch.

Meanwhile, teachers at Ishpeming ratified a contract at a special meeting Sunday and classes began this morning as scheduled.

Beef Cattle Day Set In U.P.

CHATHAM—More than 300 people are expected to converge on the Michigan State University Upper Peninsula Experiment Station here for the U.P.'s first Beef Cattle-Forage Day, Saturday, Sept. 12.

Purpose of the field day will be to report on the first year of research at the Chatham Station's Northern Beef Cattle Demonstration Center. Visitors will also have an opportunity to visit with MSU beef cattle and forage specialists and to see the Center's livestock and facilities.

Field day registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will be followed by a tour of the Center. Featured on the morning tour will be handling facilities, natural and artificial windbreaks, forage variety test plots, specialized fencing, land renovation, and the 100-cow Hereford herd. An MSU specialist will be at each tour stop to explain operations and research.

To Discuss Industry Lunch will be served at the Center, and guests will be able to participate in an informal discussion of beef cattle industry prospects in the Upper Great Lakes Region.

In the afternoon, the program agenda calls for a forage harvesting demonstration. Field day visitors will have an opportunity to view new forage harvesting machinery in action and to discuss with MSU scientists making equipment requirements for beef cow wintering operations.

According to Dr. T. R. Great-house, director of the Northern Beef Cattle Demonstration Center project, the purpose of the Center is to develop and demonstrate more profitable ways to organize and operate feeder cattle enterprises in the Upper Great Lakes Region.

Established July 1, 1969, the demonstration center will make its research findings available to feeder cattlemen throughout the Upper Great Lakes Region; including parts of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Favorable Resources "This region has resources favorable to the production of forages and other high-yielding roughages that make it well suited for feeder cattle operations," says Dr. Great-house.

"Our activities will lead to accurate evaluations of economic potentials for beef production in the Upper Great Lakes Region. We also hope that our efforts will stimulate the beef cattle industry in this area."

The Beef Cattle-Forage Field Day will be held at MSU's Upper Peninsula Experiment Station at Chatham about 46 miles north of Escanaba.

Most of the cars that finished Sunday were standard American cars and all were powered by internal combustion engines. Eight electric cars, plagued by recharging problems, were far behind—some as far away as Missouri and Texas.

Race officials gave them until midnight Wednesday to get to Pasadena.

The first car to finish Sunday was a 1970 Plymouth Valiant burning liquified propane gas. Following was another Valiant using unleaded gasoline. Both cars were driven by students from the University of California at Berkeley.

A crew from the University of California at Los Angeles was next in a 1965 Ford Mustang powered by a Japanese diesel engine.

The most exotic vehicle among the first 10 finishers was a streamlined but angular custom-built car containing an internal combustion engine driving an electric generator. It was driven by students from the University of Toronto, Canada.

In early testing of the entries at Cambridge, cars burning unleaded gasoline or propane took the top seven places when judged for urban driving, acceleration, braking and noise.

The entries came from 30 colleges and universities.

Youth Injured On Motorcycle

Jeff Hiney, 16, 307 1st Ave. S., received minor injuries Sunday afternoon when the motorcycle which he was driving ran into an automobile driven by Michael R. Thomas, 28, 515 S. 30th St.

City police officers said that Hiney turned east at 9th Ave. S. off S. 14th St., went across the center line and hit Thomas' vehicle. Thomas had stopped his car when he saw Hiney coming toward him.

Hiney was given first aid treatment at the scene of the accident by officers.

Ten Officers Shot In City Violence

By The Associated Press

Ten policemen in three cities were shot over the weekend, five of them in Philadelphia, where one died. Outbreaks of urban violence also occurred in Los Angeles where one person was killed in Mexican-American rioting and in Washington, D.C. where two foreign missions were bombed.

The latest shooting in Philadelphia came after dawn today when police raiders exchanged gunfire with barricaded occupants of what police said were headquarters of black militants.

Police said Patrolman Frank Eckman was hit in the leg when he and others crashed through the door of a Black Panther community information center in the North Philadelphia area.

Fourteen arrests were made. Philadelphia police Sgt. Frank VonColln, 43, was shot to death Saturday night while talking on the telephone in the guard house at Cobbs Creek Park. Earlier, park guard James Harrington, 39, was shot in the mouth while patrolling in an emergency wagon.

Sunday night, two highway patrolmen were shot and one was critically wounded in an incident in the same area, but Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo said he did not think the two shooting incidents were connected.

Rizzo blamed what he called a band of organized revolutionaries for the Saturday shootings. Two men were arrested and four others are being sought.

"These men set out to—as they say—kill pigs," he said.

Rizzo said that highway patrolmen Thomas J. Gibbons, 25, and Frank Nolan, 28, were shot Sunday night as they approached a car with two men after chasing and curbing the vehicle. They shot back and wounded one of the men who was apprehended.

Gibbons was reported in critical condition and Nolan as satisfactory.

Four policemen in Riverside, Calif., 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, were shot from ambush Sunday night during a search of a Mexican-American neighborhood for persons suspected of throwing firebombs earlier. None was reported seriously injured.

Police said they did not know what precipitated the throwing of firebombs and rocks in a city park. Four persons were arrested but none was charged in the shootings, police said.

Trouble also erupted Sunday night in the Wilmington section of Los Angeles.

In New York City, a Bronx patrolman was hit with a shotgun blast in an unprovoked attack early Sunday. Two hours later, the police department ordered foot patrolmen to walk all night beats in pairs.

The patrolman, Pto Rizzo, was in fair condition following the assault, the latest in an increasing number of attacks on police in the city this year.

Washington, D.C., authorities found an unexploded bomb near a Portuguese office building Sunday. The discovery came less than 16 hours after the nearby Portuguese Embassy and the Rhodesian Information Officer were damaged by separate blasts.

No one was injured in the two blasts. The Associated Press received a letter from an underground "Revolutionary Action Party" which said it was at war with all white nationalistic governments. An anonymous caller said the letter was related to both blasts.

In Wichita, Kan., a band of black youths chopped down the door of the Kappa Sigma fraternity house near Wichita State University early Sunday and fought with the 15 white residents.

Police broke up the melee and held 20 of the youths overnight for curfew violation. The fraternity president said the trouble began with a fight between two members and some blacks in front of the house.

Police in Springfield, Mass., arrested 72 persons and seized an estimated $3,000 worth of drugs during weekend disturbances at a park. A window was broken on one police cruiser and a patrolman slightly injured when it was dispatched to check reports of a crowd blocking a roadway.

FREEHANDED, THOSE DEMOCRATS — These two U. S. senators, Stephen Young, D-Ohio, and (right) Thomas Dodd, Connecticut Democrat running for re-election as an independent, each received $10,000 from the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee and apparently the cash-short party's money is down the well. Young decided not to seek re-election and Dodd didn't get party nomination. "The committee does not anticipate that it will be getting the money back," said a spokesman.

Mackinac Island Ferry Saves Hay

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — Vacationing passengers on the Chippewa ferry boat plodding its routine way from St. Ignace to Mackinac Island Saturday witnessed a traditional "thrilling rescue at sea."

The Arnold Line ferry, skippered by Capt. Jim Brown was two-thirds of the way across the Straits of Mackinac in a choppy sea when it came upon a barge towed by a launch.

The launch's motor had failed and its skipper, Eddie Pfeifleman of Mackinac Island, was unable to keep his craft from drifting towards the jagged rocks of the Mackinac Island.

The barge was loaded with 40 tons of hay, "Which may not mean much to folks on the mainland," Pfeifleman said later, "but it's a whole week's meals for the 300 horses of the Mackinac Island Carriage Tours."

Capt. Brown put the Chippewa about and followed along with Capt. Pfeifleman's craft while attempts were made to start the motor. But there was too much water in the gas line.

Amid the cheers of the 100 or more tourists on the boat Chippewa, chief engineer Norman Casey, veteran lake sailor, supervised the passing of a hawser to the barge as the Chippewa was maneuvered in close.

"Not too unusual," Casey said after the barge and launch were under tow. "We do more rescue work than you'd think. Last week the Chippewa took a woman and two small children off a foundering small pleasure craft. "We stood by until the Coast Guard came up to get the husband off the craft and tow it in."

The Chippewa towed the barge past the Mackinac Island light-house where Capt. Pfeifleman asked to be cut loose so he could come into the harbor under his own power.

"I don't go so far as to want to go down with my ship," he said, "but who the hell wants to be towed into the dock!"

Crews from the Hiawatha National Forest are battling the Shady Pass fire in central Washington, according to information received in Escanaba by Alfred Troutt, Hiawatha Forest supervisor.

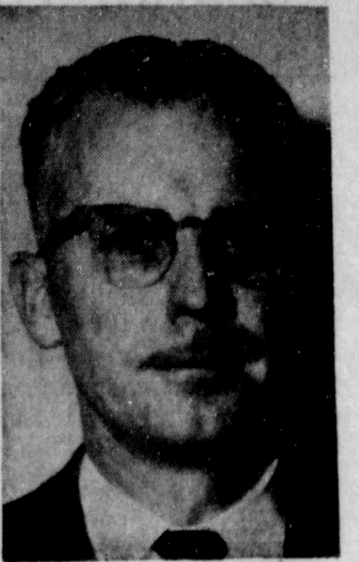

A total of 22 men from the Hiawatha National Forest staff were flown by charter jet to Washington last week in an effort to control large fires in the Wenatchee National Forest.

Troutt said the Shady Pass fire already has burned some 16,000 acres, but control is expected today.

Ten other fires in the Wenatchee Forest remained out of control this morning, although six are expected to be controlled later this afternoon or evening.

Control of the largest fire in the forest is not expected until Friday, Troutt reported.

Escanaba Daily Press

Ralph S. Kaziatek, Gen. Mgr. David L. Andrews, Editor

Liberation

Dear Editor: Why did the Escanaba Daily Press print the Associated Press article about the Women's Liberation Strike Day on its Women's Page (Aug. 26, 1970, P. 12)? Was it because it is the opinion of the editor that what women do is of interest to few, if any, men? If so, this is precisely the kind of attitude women justly resent and are working to change.

Susan E. Roos, 1308 1st Ave. S., Escanaba

Dear Susan: Why are some news stories published and others discarded? It's simply a matter of judgment by individuals working for newspapers. Sometimes the judgment is correct, other times perhaps wrong. The Daily Press of Thursday, Aug. 27, published two pictures and a story about the Women's Liberation Strike Day in the center of Page 1. That also was a judgment based on the available news report for that day.

The Women's Liberation movement is an interesting phenomenon of modern society and certainly must be recognized by both sexes. It's going to get stronger before it gets weaker. Somewhere along the line, however, a few ground rules are necessary, not only for Women's Liberation but for Male Liberation as well.

Associated Press reports from areas where the Women's Liberation movement made the biggest noise last week indicated the main thrust of the demonstrations was directed at jobs, free abortions and child care centers — all areas where women obviously would benefit. If the liberation movement progresses to the point where women are legally and socially considered on a par with men, then maybe women might accept some of the responsibility, too. The courts and laws, for example, historically have favored women in divorce cases, ordering ex-husbands to pay both alimony and child support. A reevaluation is in order.

Also, the United States has not used women in its combat forces, although the practice is not uncommon in other nations. Perhaps "liberated" women should be subject to the draft.

What direction will Women's Liberation take? Despite the movement and the "unisex" trend in clothing, hairstyles, etc., at last word there were still some basic physical and biological differences between men and women. Sociological and psychological attitudes about the mother role of women which have been developed and perpetuated throughout the centuries could be changed, if desired, although it won't happen overnight.

Increasingly, with the development of highly-successful birth control methods the decision on children is becoming a joint decision. In some states that decision now includes provision for abortion, if desired. The responsibility for rearing a child should rest with both parents, whether in caring for him or in earning money for housing, clothing, food, health and education, etc.

As society places greater and greater emphasis on individual freedom to make individual decisions — not only in the area of women's liberation, but in questions of censorship and individual behavior which isn't harmful to other elements of society — the roles of men and women are going to grow closer.

Society is going to have to adjust to the process. But in the long run, it just might be fun.

The Family Lawyer

On Pain Of Perjury

Cutting off the tongue is no longer considered, as it once was, a proper punishment for perjury. Nevertheless, the law still considers perjury a serious offense indeed. The obligation to tell the truth under oath is a vital cog in the machinery of justice.

In fact, a person may be guilty of perjury even when he does tell the truth — if he did not know it was the truth. For example:

A witness in a homicide case swore that the defendant had not been present at the scene of the shooting. Later, the witness admitted that he himself had not been there either. Charged with perjury he acknowledged that he had faked his story.

"But as it turned out," he told the court, "the story happened to be true after all. The defendant really had not been present, just as I said."

Yet the court found him guilty of perjury. Even though he had his facts straight, said the court, he had still lied about his knowledge of those facts.

Nor does a cautious phrase like "I guess" or "I think" protect a witness from the possibility of committing perjury. Thus, a witness who says "I think the defendant was speeding" would be guilty of perjury if he privately thought just the opposite — that the defendant was not speeding.

Of course, there is no perjury if the witness is honestly mistaken. Nor is there perjury if he is not put under oath.

But the offense may be committed in many places outside of the courtroom. The "pain of perjury" has been imposed for assorted kinds of dishonesty — in making a customs declaration, in registering to vote, in seeking a gun permit, in testifying before a Congressional committee.

One luckless bridegroom was charged with perjury for swearing, in his application for a marriage license, that he had never before been married. Actually, he had been married twice under a different name.

In his defense, he argued that his transgression was simply not serious enough to amount to perjury. But the court said that society has a right to take strict measures to safeguard the institution of matrimony.

"One who chooses to give false answers," added the judge, "must pay the penalty."

Democrats Get Candidate:

Lightning Hits Livonia Driving Range Owner

By DON HOENSHELL Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Political lightning hit a very nice guy who owns a golf driving range down the road from city hall in Livonia and now the Democrats have a candidate for lieutenant governor.

He is Edward H. McNamara, mayor of a 36-square-mile suburban city created 19 years ago to give a race track a home.

McNamara could have been mayor forever by promising voters a hill. It is the flattest land this side of Kansas and is laid out in square-mile grids.

At its precise geographical center, at Farmington and Five Mile Roads, stands city hall, the water building and police and fire stations. Down Five Mile westward is McNamara's driving range.

Track Revenue The city was formed when the legislature passed a law giving any municipality which had a race track inside its boundaries up to $500,000 a year.

The Detroit Race Course is at Middle Belt and Schoolcraft roads in Livonia. The money was a big chunk of Livonia's budget when the city was born, but now is a pittance.

Livonia's school budget is five times greater than the general fund of the city. Sociologists would get delight from viewing its set patterns, its predictable responses to the sway of life.

It is in Livonia that the far-right Loyalty Party held its state convention—and where liberals flocked to Detroit to greet the Freedom Marchers of a couple of summers ago.

McNamara on Top And McNamara—a Democrat of deep conviction by low-key expression—is on top of Livonia politics now.

His entrance onto the spotlighted and critical stage of statewide politics was smoother than anyone had a right to expect. From the quiet of the brick and glass city hall came McNamara.

He's an Irish Catholic and had little time for briefing between State Senator Sander M. Levin's 2:30 a. m. telephone call and his 3 p. m. news conference and his unveiling as Levin's running mate.

Would Richard C. Austin, a Detroit black, add anything to the ticket? McNamara's mind had to flash back to Livonia where the former mayor, Harvey W. Moelke, held gun schools for housewives in 1967. "Mr. Austin would be a welcome and valuable addition to the ticket—and so would a number of others," he answered.

Denies 'Offset' Role How about parochialism? Levin, of course, fought against parochialism in the legislature. Said McNamara:

"My position on parochialism is that I have no particular opposition to parochialism. My only concern is whether the state can afford it."

Levin then denied recruiting McNamara to offset his own anti-parochial stand, adding that "my criterion was ability."

McNamara said abortion is a matter of principle and private, a human relationship, and that if the state doesn't legislate for it, then it certainly shouldn't legislate against it.

The next morning, McNamara switched ever so slightly to state that parochialism is all right, but that Michigan's can't afford it.

Cooled Rebellion Smoo-o-o-t-h.

McNamara's acceptance speech was haltingly read to the Democratic convention a normal development when a man is more accustomed to saying what he thinks without help from a ghost.

At the convention he pulled his first chestnut out of the fire for Levin. Levin went into the Black Caucus to put down a rebellion, was ineffective, and shot McNamara into the breach.

McNamara, on a spot because of his suburban residence, talked tough and the blacks understood. He told of sponsoring Livonia's historic (for Livonia) Open Housing ordinance and getting it passed.

He told of rallying the city council to override Moelke's veto and how, as mayor since April, he re-charged the city's Human Relations Commission, ignored and bypassed for years.

There was one more area where McNamara might be baited—the alleged attempt by Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney, former Republican governor, to use federal aid money as the prod to integrate the suburbs.

Covers All Bases

Again McNamara showed his cool—leading his tormentors to describe him later as "Michigan's own Ed Muskie of 1970."

Muskie, the U. S. Senator from Maine, was the popular Democratic candidate for vice president in 1968. McNamara said: "People have a right to live where they please—be it Livonia, Detroit, Warren or Southfield. I question how far the federal government should go. I just have the feeling that federal intervention results in a mess."

That covered all bases and had McNamara sliding in at home plate in a cloud of dust.

McNamara works hard at what he does. It is not uncommon for him to call meetings at 7 a. m.—and get people there. After a late night meeting he might be host at coffee at a nearby restaurant.

For years as a political figure and as a city councilman, McNamara was urged to run for higher office, perhaps congress. But Rep. Jack H. McDonald had that spot nailed down for Republicans.

Lost Senate Race McNamara ran for the State Senate in 1964 for the seat vacated before he took office by the death of Publisher Paul Chandler. McNamara ran with the endorsement of Chandler's widow, Myra.

DATING SERVICE

HULL, England (AP)—Girls at this port recently took advantage of a "dial-a-sailor" service and got blind dates from the crew of the HMS Ajax, here for a six day stay. Local girls got dates with the members of the 260-man crew simply by dialing a local telephone number and registering with the service.

McNamara lost in the special election to former Senator Farrell E. Roberts of Pontiac.

Roberts shortly went to the Oakland County circuit bench and he was succeeded by Senator George W. Kuhn (R. Birmingham).

McNamara stayed loose in Livonia, tending his driving range when he could, working as a customer relations man for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and politicking.

He won't have to resign as mayor to run as Levin's lieutenant governor candidate. If he needed a quick legal opinion, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley was in the convention hotel.

McNamara as a nonpartisan city official has been strong, perceptive, decisive and open to suggestion—all of them qualities that will serve him well on the campaign this fall.

That's who McNamara is and what makes him run in a race he has always wanted to make, in a party to which he has always belonged. There remained a four-word assessment by Levin: "Ed McNamara has guts."

Suffering Different For Nearly Everyone

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

It is a mistake to assume that all people suffer in this life to the same degree. There are those who would rather see a murder than watch a sunset—and a fortunate few who have more trouble with hangnails than heartaches.

Women have a greater tendency than men to paint themselves into a corner. For example, you have often heard a vexed woman exclaim: "I wouldn't marry him if he were the last man on earth!" But rarely, if ever, have you ever heard a man say of a woman, no matter how homely or exasperating she might be: "I wouldn't marry her if she were the last girl on earth."

The truth in any case, of course, is: if he was, she would; if she was, he would.

We will have taken quite a step on the way to cultural integration when at least one out of every 10 white Americans can quote from memory two lines written by a Negro poet.

It is amazing how few men wear argyle socks when they go to the bank to borrow money.

I feel like crying whenever I see a single woman over 40 wearing a white hair ribbon in her long tresses. I get the same feeling when I hear a bugler sounding "Taps." Gallantry is always stirring.

An optimist is a guy who drinks three vodka martinis at lunch, goes back to the office, grabs his boss by the lapels, and asks for a merit raise. The depressing truth, however, is that sometimes that's as good a way to go about it as any.

The girl in the office who would make the best wife is usually the one who keeps a small sewing kit in her desk and has a safety pin to lend if you need one to keep pencils and small change from leaking out of a hole in your pants pocket.

Contract Bridge

By B. JAY BECKER FAMOUS HAND

North dealer. East-West vulnerable. NORTH: AK 6 2 7 5 9 8 6 3 AK 8 WEST: J 9 7 4 AQ 10 6 Q 7 2 J 6 EAST: Q 8 3 K J 9 8 4 3 J 10 5 5 SOUTH: 10 5 2 AK 4 Q 10 9 7 4 3 2

The bidding: North East South West 1 Pass 2 Pass 3 Pass 5 Pass

Opening lead—four of spades. Players unfamiliar with duplicate bridge may see nothing remarkable about this hand played in a pair event many years ago. This is because the average rubber bridge player understandably takes the view that extra tricks above the contract are of relatively insignificant value.

But to the duplicate player an extra trick is a highly important matter. The aim in duplicate is to outscore the other players who hold exactly the same cards, and the margin by which the others are outscored is not particularly relevant. In this respect, duplicate bridge is similar to match play in golf.

This deal was played by Helen Sobel early in her career. It received wide mention in bridge circles and helped to establish her reputation as probably the best woman bridge player in the world.

West led a spade and Mrs. Sobel followed low from dummy! Such a play would hardly occur to the average player, but Mrs. Sobel reasoned that it would gain a trick if West had the Q-J, and also that it might gain a trick if the defense slipped.

The defense did slip. East won the spade and returned a diamond instead of a heart. As a result, Mrs. Sobel made six instead of five. She won with the ace, led a club to the king, cashed the king of diamonds, and led a club to the ace.

Then, after cashing the A-K of spades and discarding a diamond, she ruffed a diamond, establishing the nine as a trick on which she later discarded her losing heart.

Note that the spade duck at trick one could not really cost anything. Had East returned a heart at trick two, Mrs. Sobel would still have made eleven tricks.

Ann Landers Cutting Toenails Not Part Of Party Plans

Dear Ann Landers: Recently we had a party at our home. My in-laws were invited, as they always are when we entertain. Both are in excellent health. (I should feel so good.)

After dinner I noticed my mother-in-law beckon for her son to come to the back of the house. My curiosity got the best of me so I followed them. When I opened the door to my sewing room (which had been closed but not locked) I was shocked to see my husband busily trimming his mother's toenails.

They greeted me in a friendly manner and invited me in. My mother-in-law said, with considerable pride, "Nobody cuts toenails like my Irving. I feel so much better now. It's a load off my feet."

For your information, Ann Landers, Irving is 46 years old. Am I wrong to be upset over this? It seems to me the middle of a party is hardly the time to cut toenails. And don't you agree that my mother-in-law should ask her husband and not MINE, to perform this personal service? — Wife of T. N. T. (Toe-Nail-Trimmer)

Dear Dynamite: According to your mother-in-law nobody cuts toenails like her Irving, so there you have it. I agree she could have selected a better time but it's not worth fighting about. Your husband is too old to retrain—and so is your mother-in-law. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: My father doesn't understand me. I am sure lots of letters to you start off this way, but I'm not stopping here. What I want to say is I don't care whether my dad understands me or not because I know he loves me.

We disagree about many things, and I am sure he thinks I'm dumb and miserable — I think he is spaced out and has no idea of what it's like to be a teen-ager today. But underneath it all, I feel his love and I know he is smarter than I am about certain things because he has lived through more. I know, too, he is on my side and everything he tells me is for my own good. He may not always be right, but he is my friend, and this is what counts.—A Son

Dear Son: What a great letter! I'm not printing the name of your city because I'm sure there are millions of dads out there who would like to think it was meant for them. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: What can be done about a young in-law who is too lazy to acknowledge a wedding gift? She waits until she runs into people. Then she gushes all over them and blurts out a list of excuses for not writing a thank you note. This is especially embarrassing when people outside the family call me to ask if their present was received. The usual phrase is—"We have not had an acknowledgment. Maybe the gift went astray."

I haven't said a word because I don't want to start anything. If I ever told her what I thought, it would be the end of our relationship. Can you suggest a way to teach the bride some manners?—White Plains, N. Y.

Dear N. Y.: Sounds like your daughter-in-law. Sorry about that. My advice is to say nothing. If her own mother didn't teach her manners, she is not likely to appreciate any belated lessons from her mother-in-law.

When questioned about an unacknowledged gift, urge the person to call Super Slob and ask her if the gift was received. There's always a small chance the gift did go astray, in which case the store should be notified.

Meany Opposes Effort To Give Women Equality

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says the politically powerful labor federation opposes the woman's liberation movement for absolute equality because millions of women union members don't want to give up the job protections they have won in federal and state laws.

"There are laws in some states that women cannot work in coal mines," Meany said, adding that most women don't want to win the dubious right to mine coal or other heavy, dangerous work.

He said the AFL-CIO, one of the strongest lobbying blocs in Congress, won't help enact the amendment to give women absolute equality which was passed by the House and is pending in the Senate.

Negroes Progress
Meany, in a pre-Labor Day interview, also said Negroes are making progress in getting better-paid union jobs "but the progress is very, very slow."

And the 76-year-old labor chieftain, father of three grown daughters, gave short shrift to today's generation of rebellious youth.

"If the younger generation are the hundred thousand kids that lay around a field in Woodstock, N.Y., I am not going to trust the destiny of the country to that group," Meany said.

"By what stretch of the imagination can you say that a 20-year-old kid knows what is wrong with the world and what should be done about it to a greater extent than a person who has had years of experience?" he asked.

Must Win Spurs
Meany said there is a limited role for youth in the nation's labor movement, but suggested they must win their spurs through experience before exercising any major influence on union members.

Here are questions and answers from the interview:

Q: Are you going to help the ladies get their equal rights amendment across?

Meany: No.

Q: Why?

Meany: Well, there are certain protections in the law for women that we have been fighting to put into the law for many, many years. I passed a number of them 30-odd years ago in the New York State legislature. And all of this legislation was prepared by the ladies.

Now, of course, we get these militant feminists and they don't want any protection. They are equal and so on and so forth.

We represent millions of women who are in our unions and if they were willing to lose these protections, it would be all right with the AFL-CIO.

But we are going to take our policy from the women who are represented in our unions and they are opposed to this so-called equal rights amendment, unless there would be some safeguard in there to preserve this protective legislation.

State To Halt Road Projects

LANSING (AP) — Almost all construction on Michigan highways will be halted over Labor Day Weekend to ease the burden of motorists fleeing the cities for their traditional end-of-summer outing.

Faced with a holiday traffic movement expected to reach 610 million vehicle miles, State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth ordered a stop to all but emergency road work.

The ban will run from 5 p.m. Sept. 4 to the start of the workday Sept. 8.

Stafseth also announced that contractors will be ordered to move construction equipment a safe distance from the main traveled portion of the roadway at all construction sites and that construction warning signs will be covered or removed if they do not actually reflect conditions ahead.

Barge traffic under the Zilwaukee lift bridge between Saginaw and Bay City will be curtailed voluntarily during certain peak traffic hours over the long weekend, Stafseth said.

Klan Takeover Of AIP Denied

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Robert E. Miles, who is Michigan Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America, Sunday denied charges that the Klan was trying to take over the American Independent Party in Michigan.

Miles, 45, of rural Howell, was named Saturday as the AIP's candidate for secretary of state. He defeated Mrs. John Calder, 31, a Lansing housewife, 132-32.

Miles was asked to comment on charges by Eugene Clements, 30, of Buchanan, a delegate who was removed from the AIP convention by three sergeants at arms.

At the time, Clements tried to go to the podium to protest procedures at the convention. Afterwards, Clements said that he was concerned that the Klan had assumed great influence in the AIP.

"Manipulating" Charged
Clements also said "The Klan is manipulating the party and has been manipulating it all the time. The Klan has come into many counties and organized AIP chapters."

Asked about it, Miles said Sunday that "I happened to be a member of the Klan and the titular head of it in Michigan." He said this is what Clements was pinning his contentions on. Miles said less than 10 per cent of the AIP ticket are members of the Klan. He declined to name any other Klan member candidates.

Miles said that Clements "has been a thorn in the party" before the 1968 election, when the AIP candidate for President George Wallace received ten per cent of the Michigan vote.

Runs For Governor
Clements said Sunday he agreed that the Klan did not have great numerical strength in the AIP, but he said their power was far above their numbers because of the way the various

State Legislatures Are Earning More Respect

By JERRY BROWN

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The nation's legislatures are being filled with a new breed, more competent and more willing to exert their authority.

That was the underlying current of several major themes running through the four-day National Legislative Conference that adjourned Friday. The meeting drew just over 1,000 state legislators and legislative aides.

Delegates to the conference indicated they feel the image of state lawmakers as powerless political hacks often doing more harm than good is no longer valid, if it ever was.

Reapportionment ordered under the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote dictum, many said, has brought a host of new faces and new ideas to the nation's statehouses.

Gain In Power

As the legislatures have become more representative, the argument goes, they have gained increased public trust and thus increased power.

And the lawmakers plan a concerted effort on several fronts to take advantage of what they feel is a new opportunity to increase their influence.

First, the legislators want Congress to give them more money with fewer strings attached.

They approved a policy statement urging legislatures to petition Congress for a constitutional convention on the question of revenue sharing.

Critics noted there has never been a national constitutional convention since the present constitution took effect in 1789 and said they considered the tactic dangerous since some authorities feel such a convention could not be limited to a single topic.

Pressure Play

Backers readily conceded they do not expect a convention to be called. The idea, they said, is to put pressure on Congress so it will approve one of the dozen or so revenue-sharing bills now mired in committee.

Revenue sharing would give the legislatures, as well as city and county governments, a fixed portion of federal tax revenues to spend any way they want.

The state lawmakers also feel federal restrictions on many of the grants or matching funds now available give state and local officials "too little control over programs they are expected to help pay for."

Focal point of their criticism is welfare.

Because of stringent federal regulations, many states are finding they have little control over spiraling welfare costs which they are expected to help pay.

Federal Welfare?

And states like New York, California, New Jersey and Illinois say welfare recipients are pouring into their borders by the thousands because their payments are many times higher than payments in some smaller states, particularly in the south.

Many of the state lawmakers want the federal government to take over all welfare payments, leaving the states to handle the social work involved.

Revenue sharing and a federal takeover of welfare payments would, of course, give legislatures more money to appropriate for programs over which they have prime control. And it would allow them to escape the political price of having to vote for tax increases to get the money.

Dr. Daniel P. Moynihan, President Nixon's adviser on urban affairs, told the lawmakers Friday night they would have prove they can act if revenue sharing is approved.

Planning Emphasized

Federal involvement grew, he said, "in a day when a call for states rights was a call for inaction." During that time, Moynihan said, the prevailing belief became "if you want something

Goldie Wants Movie Nude Scene Cut Down

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Goldie Hawn has decided to ask the producer to cut some of the footage of her nude backside in her second movie.

The tousel blonde Oscar winner of "Cactus Flower" costarred with Peter Sellers in "There's a Girl in My Soup," filmed in London.

"It took a lot of talking to get me to do the scene," Goldie reported. "I'm not with anyone in it; I've slept alone. I get out of bed and put on a robe."

Free Character
"We discussed it and we said, 'of course, this is a very free character and she wouldn't sleep with her clothes on.' It's beautifully shot, though a curtain, and not blatant."

"But seeing the rushes did something to me. I saw it wasn't as necessary as I thought. I'm going to ask if it can be toned down a bit."

"I don't think I'll ever do another," Miss Hawn said of nude scenes.

Goldie was back for a one-shot return to Rowan & Martin's "Laugh-In," from which the giggling zany cupcake sprang to movie stardom.

Sweet, Loveable
In the segment, taped for NBC-TV airing Sept. 26, Dan Rowan introduces her as "still the same sweet, lovable, simple Goldie Hawn."

Heralds' trumpets blast and Goldie marches in wearing a crown, carrying her Oscar as a scepter. Page boys unroll a red carpet—and sweep it with a broom ahead of her.

Must Grow
Goldie played the dumb blonde on "Laugh-In," but she doesn't talk dumb. On leaving that show: "If we don't grow we become stunted, and that's the worst thing in the world for a person."

Israeli Delegate To Peace Talks Staying At Home

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli delegate to the Middle East peace talks at the United Nations is staying in Jerusalem at least until the middle of the week, awaiting the outcome of a Cabinet debate over what line to take in the negotiations.

Cairo Radio claimed that statements from high Israeli officials indicate Jerusalem is preparing to quit the talks. President Gamal Abdel Nasser denied Israel's seven charges of Egyptian cease-fire violations, the seventh of which was made Sunday.

No Agreement

Yosef Tekoa, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, who flew to Jerusalem last week after one day of Arab-Israeli meetings with U.N. Middle East envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, reported to the Cabinet at a seven-hour meeting Sunday. Informed sources said the Cabinet could not agree on a position to take in the talks, and a spokesman said Tekoa would remain for another session Tuesday.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan met twice with Premier Golda Meir during the weekend, then was joined by Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev in presenting to the Cabinet the military's position on the alleged violations.

They presumably were supported by Israel Galili, minister without portfolio in the Cabinet, who said Saturday that Egyptian violations of the truce could force Israel to walk out of the negotiations being conducted by Jarring with the U.N. ambassadors from Israel, Egypt and Jordan.

Similar Charge

The seventh violation charge was similar to the others. Israel again said the Egyptians are continuing construction of an aircraft missile sites within 18 miles of the canal. But Nasser told a foreign delegation visiting Cairo that "the missiles have been in their present places since long before the standstill became effective" at midnight Aug. 7.

"There is no material proof that Israel really wants the establishment of peace despite her announced acceptance of the U.S. plan," he said. "This is evident from the latest statements by Israeli leaders that they are ready to withdraw from only parts of the occupied territories."

Calls For Compromise

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban called Friday for a compromise settlement in which Israeli forces would retain some of the territory taken during the June 1967 war.

Cairo Radio claimed the statements by Eban and Galili were the prelude to Israeli withdrawal from the peace talks. It also said the United States by supplying military equipment to Israel shows "its insincerity toward the implementation of the American-sponsored peace initiative in the Middle East." It cited reports that Washington is considering supplying electronic monitoring equipment to Israel to counter any buildup of Soviet arms along the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal.

In Amman, Jordan's capital, government troops clashed Sunday for the third night with Palestinian guerrillas opposed to the peace moves. Three guerrillas were reported wounded, and sporadic gunfire continued today in Amman. Government representatives and the guerrillas' central committee scheduled a meeting to discuss ways of preventing further clashes.

ports. "meaningful reform of Michigan's abortion statute," the 18-year-old vote as well as 18-year-old majority, strong anti-pollution measures and a shift away from the local property tax to the state income tax for financing of education.

In a brief mention of Southeast Asia, the party commended President Nixon for "his relentless pursuit of peace with justice...."

GOP delegates, meanwhile, selected William Farr Jr., a Grand Rapids attorney, as their candidate for attorney general. Milliken asked Farr to run before the defeated candidate, Roger Kidston of Kalamazoo, entered the race.

In other balloting, Supreme Court Justice John R. Dethmers, a 24-year veteran of the court who will be 67 in October, was nominated for another six-year term. The party also endorsed Edward S. Piggins, 64-year-old Wayne County Circuit Court judge and former Detroit police commissioner, to run for the high court.

Choose Educators

In late stages of the more than 12 hour convention, delegates nominated two educators for positions on the State Board of Education and picked men with various business and management backgrounds to run for seats on the boards of the three major state universities.

R. Robert Geake, an educational psychologist from Northville, and David Robinson, a black admissions officer at the University of Michigan's Dearborn branch, were named to run for the State Board of Education. Robinson lives in Detroit.

The convention chose Paul Goebel, Jr., a Grand Rapids insurance man, and Jack Shuler, an attorney for Michigan Bell living in Orchard Lake, to run for the regents of the University of Michigan. Goebel's father is retiring this year from the board of regents.

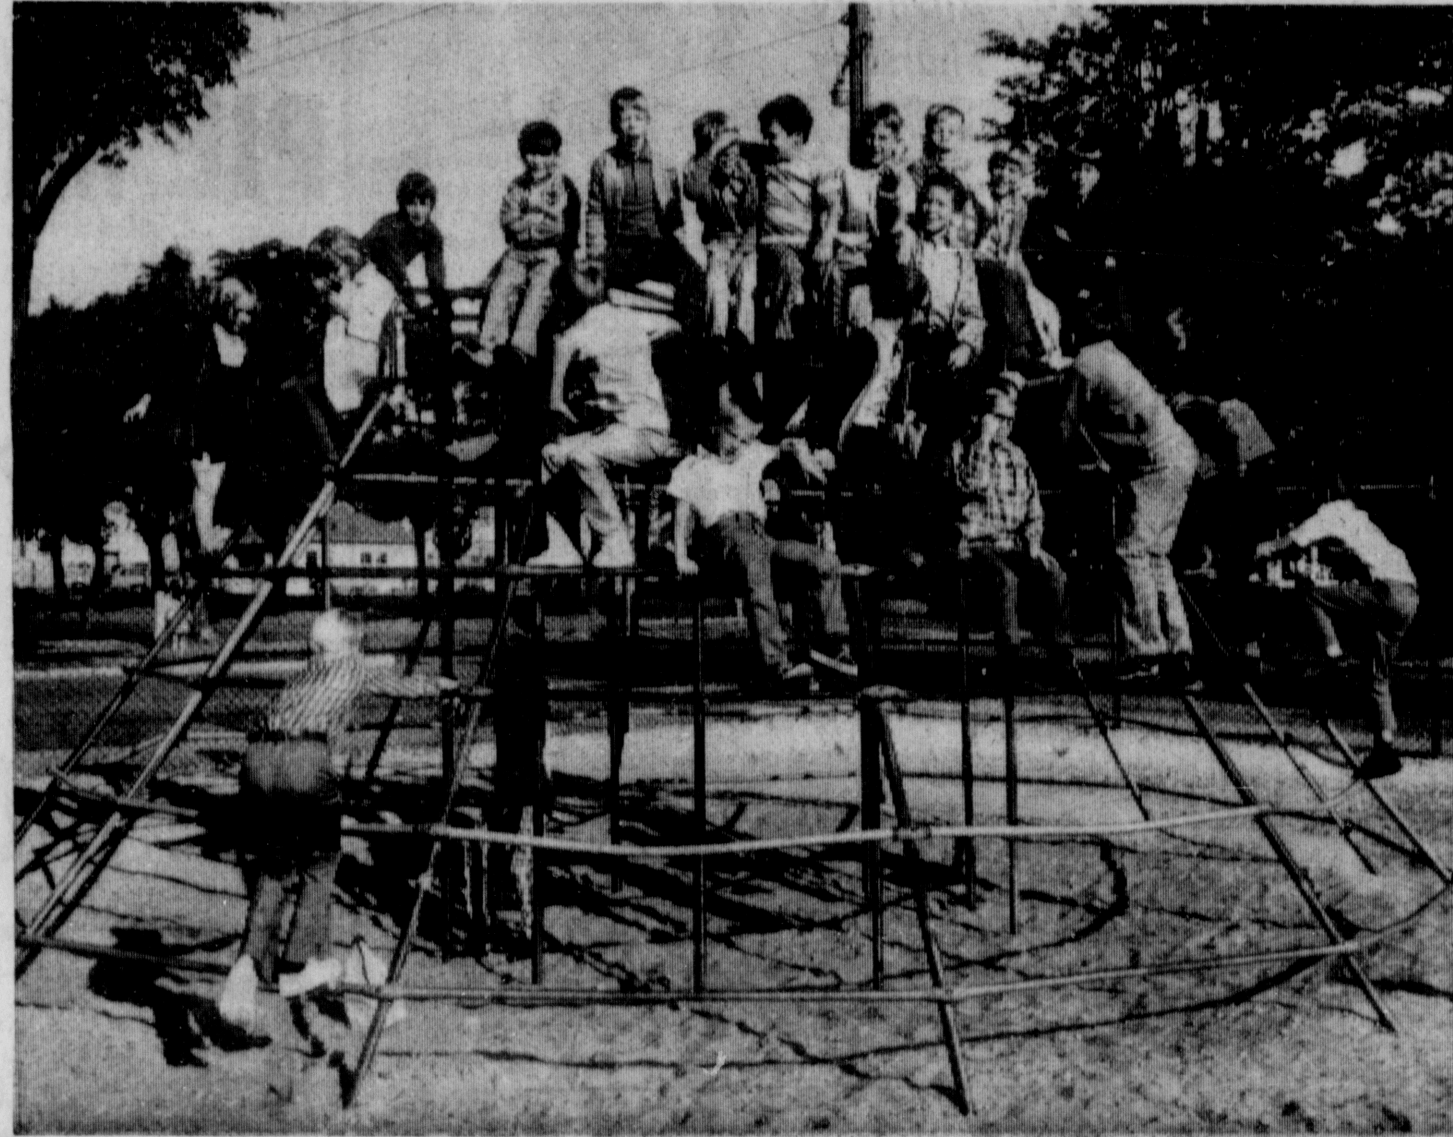

Raymond Hayes of Pontiac, General Motors public relations director, and Earl Kennedy, a Negro who is second vice president of the GOP state central committee, were picked to run for the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

Richard Ernst, a Bloomfield Hills man who operates a jewelry manufacturing business, and David Diehl, a Dansville farmer who once played football for the Detroit Lions, were nominated without opposition to run for trustees of Michigan State University.

State Resident Dies, Age 103

PETERSBURG (AP) — A.J. Davis, one of Michigan's oldest men, died at his home Saturday at the age of 103.

Davis, a native of Ida Township, was a farmer most of his life and was active until two years ago.

Survivors include five grandchildren, 13 great grandchildren and seven great great grandchildren.

Labor Day Toll

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council has estimated that 570 to 670 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Labor Day weekend.

The council said Sunday that American motorists will drive 300 million miles more over the three-day holiday than they would during a normal weekend.

Enemy Rocket Attacks Decline

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy rocket and mortar attacks dropped off about a third during the night from a four-month high the night before, but casualties so far reported were about an eighth of what they were Saturday night.

U.S. B-52 bombers meanwhile made heavy raids for the third day on newly detected supply routes in Laos.

The U.S. Command reported 40 shelling attacks across South Vietnam from 8 a.m. Sunday to 8 a.m. Monday, and incomplete reports said one American and two South Vietnamese civilians were killed, and eight Americans and 13 South Vietnamese were wounded.

In the 24 hours before, 61 enemy rocket and mortar attacks were reported, the heaviest since May 1. And the barrages Saturday night and early Sunday killed 55 South Vietnamese and wounded 140, most of them civilians.

Most of the targets Saturday night were district towns or government outposts. The aim was to damage the South Vietnamese government's pacification program and keep voters away from the senatorial election Sunday. But 4,388,000 persons, or 67.5 per cent of the 6.5 million registered voters, cast their ballots, the government reported.

In ground fighting, U.S. forces backed by helicopter gunships reported killing 40 enemy soldiers in four clashes Sunday south of Da Nang. No U.S. casualties were reported in these actions.

Police Search Kidnap-Robber

DETROIT (AP) — Police searched for two men today in the kidnapping and robbery of a young woman who said the bandits forced her to withdraw $1,350 Saturday from a bank account.

Mrs. Leona Black, 21, of Detroit, said that a man stopped her after she left a bank where she deposited $70 into her mother's account there.

She said that the man forced her into her car, where another man held her 2-year-old daughter and a friend hostage. Mrs. Black said she was forced to go to the downtown office of the bank and make the withdrawal from her mother's account.

The woman said the men then fled in another car, occupied by another man and woman.

Gunmen Rob Navy Arsenal

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Gunmen invaded a Navy arsenal about two miles from a nuclear weapons storage point and escaped with firearms and ammunition while five sailors they had tied up watched helplessly, the FBI reports.

The robbery Sunday at the Cecil Field Naval Air Station was pulled off by raiders armed with pistols, the FBI said. The exact number of raiders has not been determined but at least three were involved, a FBI spokesman reported.

An investigation revealed that the intruders remained for 90 minutes at the arsenal, located about two miles from the Cecil Field storage point for nuclear weapons.

Authorities said the arsenal is guarded by a civilian security force employed by the Defense Department.

An FBI agent said none of the sailors saw all of the early morning Negro intruders. Investigators said one of the group may have been a woman or a man wearing a wig.

"Numerous hand guns and small arms weapons were taken including seven carbines," the FBI said.

The commanding officer of Cecil Field, Capt. L. K. Simon, said an exact count of missing weapons was not available because the Navy was taking inventory.

The sailors told the FBI the gunmen ransacked lockers, ripped the telephone from the wall and made their getaway in one of the seamen's cars. The car was later found abandoned outside an unguarded base gate.

Kelley Intervenes In Gas Rate Case

LANSING (AP) — Calling Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.'s current rates "excessive, unreasonable and unlawful," Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today intervened before the Michigan Public Service Commission in the company application for a new rate increase.

The firm earlier this month was ordered by Ingham County Circuit Court to reduce a 1969 rate increase and grant a refund to some 968,000 customers although it has a new rate increase application pending with the state commission.

The amount of that requested increase has not yet been detailed by the company, Kelley's office said.

The attorney general said present rates are now producing revenues "in excess of those necessary to meet all of the expenses of the company's gas utility business, pay the interest on the company's debt and earn a fair return" on the investment of a New York corporation which owns all of Consolidated's stock.

Kelley said the interest of the rate-paying public, including the State of Michigan, would best be served if the commission not only delved into the company's present petition for an increase, but also investigated "whether the present revenues are unreasonable and excessive and should be reduced."

The court-ordered rate reduction order last week meant an average 35-cent-a-month reduction effective Tuesday, and average refunds of $2.70 each to the company's 968,000 residential and commercial customers.

In Washington today, the director of the National Mexican-American Anti-defamation Committee asked President Nixon in a telegram "to order... an FBI investigation of the East Los Angeles riot and the murder of Ruben Salazar."

Domingo Nick Reyes told Nixon that the shooting of Salazar "is incomprehensible to us. No other person had been as dedicated to articulating the Anglo community and public at large about the hopelessness, frustration, and tensions in the Barrios (ghettos) of the Mexican-American community."

Reyes urged also in the telegram that Nixon name a high-level investigating panel, to include Chicanos, to report on the riot.

Heavy patrols continued through Sunday as authorities sealed off 10 blocks along Whittier Boulevard.

The riot released long-standing Mexican-American frustrations at being at the bottom of the economic and social heap, said Gonzalo Javier, a parade organizer.

(8 innings)

Andy's Bar of Marquette reigns today as the new U. P. Class D softball champions claiming the title by squeezing past Bark River twice in the championship round Sunday at Memorial Field.

Bark River entered the finals of the tournament undefeated and with a 2-1 victory over Andy's in the semifinals, but Andy's, playing heads up ball, rallied in both games to win the championship.

In the first game of the championship round, Andy's had to go into extra innings to upend Bark River 7-6.

With the game tied, singles by Chuck Daugherty and Frank Berry plus one costly error, scored the winning run for Andy's. Bark River threatened to tie the game in its half of the eighth when Jerry Sundquist doubled with one out and was on third when Jim Bourdeau grounded out to the third baseman to end the game.

Berry picked up the mound victory while Bob Triest was saddled with the defeat. Triest, Sundquist and Jim Sargent led the wall-balanced attack for Bark River with two safeties apiece.

Championship Tilt

In the final game of the double elimination tournament, Bark River rallied for two runs in the second to tie the game on two walks and singles by George Peterson and Paul Sabourin before Andy's exploded in the fifth for three runs to win the title game 6-2 over the Rivermen.

The big fifth inning which won the Class D crown for Andy's was sparked by singles by Daugherty and Rick Freeman, along with a couple of errors on the part of Bark River.

Ed Trelor was the winning pitcher in the final game with Jim Bourdeau, who was relieved by Triest in the fifth, being tagged with the defeat.

Roger Daugherty and Freeman paced Andy's attack with two hits apiece in the championship game. With the U. P. title now tucked away, Andy's will advance to the State Class D meet at Muskegon and will play its first game on Friday at 9 a. m., against a team from Lower Michigan.

Soo Wins B Title

In the Class B U. P. meet held at Negaunee, veteran Dave (Whitty) Horikawa hurled all six games as Rosini's from Sault

Ste. Marie won the title.

Rosini's started the tournament by beating Edward's of Iron Mountain 1-0 Saturday morning and handed the Escanaba Papermakers its first loss Saturday night, 3-0.

The pre-tournament favorite, Peterson's of Gwinn handed the Soo team its first loss, 6-4, Saturday night. Rosini's then bounced back to beat Edward's again 8-2 and in the finals blasted Peterson's 6-1 and 6-4. Edward's gained the semifinals by beating the Escanaba Paper Mill 2-0.

United States Wins Tennis' Davis Cup

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States has won tennis' Davis Cup again, even though the series doesn't wind up until today.

Ferdinand Henkel, whose West German squad lost the first three matches—giving the United States an insurmountable 3-0 lead—thinks the structure of the Davis Cup playoffs needs a change.

"Four Davis Cup rounds in six weeks—that's too much for the players," the Germans' non-playing captain said Sunday after Americans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz whipped Wilhelm Bungert and Christian Kuhke in doubles, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

"There should be at least three weeks break before the challenge round," Henkel said. "We had only 11 days. It's a war of nerves."

Ed Turville, rookie captain of the American team, didn't agree.

"Two weeks' rest between rounds should be enough," the St. Petersburg, Fla., attorney said. "After all, the Germans had the advantage of playing in this type of competition. Our boys hadn't seen this pressure for nearly a year."

"I followed the boys at Wimbledon this year," Turville said, "and they weren't shaking like they were here when they took the court."

Meaningless singles matches were scheduled today. Arthur Ashe Jr., of Richmond, Va., faced Kuhke and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., took on Bungert.

The doubles' triumph pulled the United States into a tie with Australia with 22 Davis Cup victories, a record for the world competition. It was also the Americans' third decision in a row.

Lutz and Smith, who took the 1967-68 NCAA doubles crowns as Southern Cal students, ran their Davis Cup record to 8-0, including a 3-0 in challenge rounds.

NL East Title Up For Grabs

By The Associated Press
Welcome to the National League East and the division championship nobody wants.

Well, almost nobody. The Chicago Cubs, who flirted with the flag for most of last season before getting jilted in the final month, are showing a revived interest. It's a good thing. Neither the New York Mets nor Pittsburgh Pirates seemed to care particularly about it.

The Cubs used Joe Pepitone's ninth inning homer for a 3-0 victory over San Diego Sunday and took over second place in the division, one game back of the staggering Pirates. Pittsburgh dropped both ends of a doubleheader, 7-3 and 2-1 to San Francisco.

The Mets dropped their third straight to Houston, 9-5. It was New York's sixth loss in the last seven games but over that stretch, the Mets have actually gained one-half game in the division race.

New York was 2½ games behind when they started their slide last Sunday and today the Mets find themselves two games behind. The difference is that the Cubs have slipped past them into second place.

Long-shot specialists are advised that fourth place St. Louis is 5½ behind and Philadelphia, in fifth place, is 7½ back. Don't count Montreal out either. They're only 12½ out.

Elsewhere in the NL Sunday, St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 2-1, Montreal Clipped Cincinnati 5-1 and Philadelphia defeated Atlanta 4-2.

Tulsa has 11 football games this fall, nine of them at night.

Tennessee's Chattanooga football team will play seven night games this season.

New Champion To Be Crowned At Country Club

There will be a new men's golf champion at the Escanaba Country Club this year.

Dave Andrews, the defending champion, was knocked into the first flight Saturday by Dick Peterson 2 and 1 as the 16-man title flight was paired to eight for the Labor Day weekend tourney.

Jim Schultz, the runnerup of 1969, also lost. Former champion Harold VanEffen bumped Schultz 1 up.

In other results, Bill Eis Jr., who won the Tri Club tournament and paired with VanEffen to win the Gladstone Best-Ball earlier this summer, continued his fine play in beating Don Miller 6 and 4. Dr. Ed Kuivenen defeated Jim Savastano 1 up, Tom Gregoire beat Jim Bureau 2 up, Tom Davis defeated Ken Turner 2 and 1, Ed Gravelle topped Don Feller 2 and 1 and Chet Farum whipped Bill Elliott 5 and 3.

In the quarterfinal round beginning at noon next Saturday, Peterson will face VanEffen. Eis is matched against Kuivenen. Gregoire will play Davis and Gravelle meet Farum.

Men planning to play in the tournament must sign up by Wednesday, announced Pro Jim Crichton.

Junior Champions Crowned At Club

Randy Eis and Jan Arntzen reign today as the new Junior Golf champions of the Escanaba Country Club.

Eis turned in rounds of 37 and 41 for an 18-hole score of 78 to win the boys division by three strokes over Brian Douglas.

Miss Arntzen carded identical nines of 52 for a 104 total and a one-stroke victory over Linda Laug, who shot 51-54-105.

The tournament Friday was an 18-hole medal play event for high school age members.

Carr Shines, Packers Clobber Raiders 37-7

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Green Bay Packers' defense, which is supposed to earn its pay by keeping things from happening, took matters into its own hands and throttled the Oakland Raiders in a National Football League exhibition game here Sunday, 37-7.

The Packers intercepted seven Raiders' passes, and beat bumps with fine indiscretion on both Oakland quarterbacks, Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler. Lamonica suffered four interceptions, one for a touchdown, and Stabler had three passes picked off — both by Rookie Cleo Walker — besides being jarred by Dave Robinson into a fumble which Fred Carr returned for a touchdown.

Carr was the most prominent ball hawk, with two interceptions and the touchdown, and Dave Robinson, Green Bay's other corner linebacker, wasn't far behind.

Good Defense

The Packers defense was good enough this day to win by itself, but Bart Starr, as cool and efficient as he had ever been, provided important help in the first quarter. The Packers got 24 points in the first 15 minutes — their biggest one period explosion since they scored 35 against Cleveland in a league game in Milwaukee in 1967.

As it turned out, that finished the Raiders right there, to the loud displeasure of the sellout crowd of 53,395, and the Packers wound up easing to their second straight practice victory, to go with two previous ties. The team hasn't lost an exhibition in seven straight games now.

The Packers increased the size of their roster by two Sunday, adding defensive tackle Glen Keppy, a graduate of Platteville State who was cut earlier by the Detroit Lions, and putting one of their first draft choices, Rich McGeorge, on active duty.

McGeorge, who reported Aug. 9 because of military service, had been exempt from roster limits. But he got playing time Sunday, and now will be counted on the roster. The Packers will have to cut two men by Monday, since the team's two College All-Stars are still exempt.

Packers Attack

The Packers were relentless in the first quarter Sunday, and just as important, they were errorless. Neither fumble nor interception nor penalty marred Green Bay's performance in those 15 minutes, and when they were ended, the score was 24-0.

The Packers had no further inroads on Oakland's defense by halftime — indeed, an errant pass by Don Horn helped the Raiders cut their deficit to 24-7. But the memory of that brilliant first quarter was still strong, and the sellout crowd cheered when Ken Stabler replaced Lamonica as Oakland quarterback just before halftime.

Starr and his regulars were rarely better, and the Packers defense had its most productive quarter in memory.

The Packers won the toss, to start with — something they had not done all summer — and churned downfield to a first down on the Oakland 20.

Drive Stalls

The drive stalled there, but Luhtog stepped back and kicked a 25-yard field goal, and the Packers were off and winging.

After an Oakland punt, Starr hit Anderson, who was cutting across the middle of the field, for a 27 yard gain to the Raider 25, and on third and nine from the 13, Starr threw to Hilton — just over the fingertips of defensive back George Atkinson — for a touchdown.

With 4 minutes 14 seconds left in the quarter, it was 10-0. And now it was the defense's turn. Lamonica went back from his own 18 to pass, and Wood stepped in front of Wells to intercept. He returned 28 yards to the three, and Anderson cut through right tackle on the first play for a score. Lusteg kicked and it was 17-0.

By now the crowd was getting vocal in its opinion of Lamonica's efforts, but the Packers weren't through yet. On the first play after the kickoff, Bob Brown got a hand on Lamonica's pass, Dave Robinson intercepted and ran 21 yards into the end zone. Again Lusteg kicked, and the ante was raised to 24 points, 14 of them in 19 seconds.

Tame Time

Neither side got any points on the board in the third period, but the Raiders were moving as the quarter ended.

Todd's fumble at the Green Bay three yard line stopped Oakland's best threat in the period. Robinson recovered the ball in the end zone. Then Horn threw an interception—the ball was tipped but not held by Spills en route — to cut a Packers' thrust short.

Move Defense

But in the fourth period, the Packer defense gave Stabler a dose of Lamonica's medicine. The ball was on the Packers 33, second and 10, when Stabler faded to pass. Robinson came roaring in with such force that he knocked the ball free.

Nobody but the irrepressible Carr was in the area, and Carr picked the ball up and ran 55 yards to a touchdown.

Joe Runk's kick made the score 31-7 with 14:47 to play, but Runk's day was a brief one. He kicked off, and was promptly kicked wrong side up by Carl Weathers. Three minutes later, Runk was conscious enough to be helped from the field.

Walker's second interception gave the Packers the ball on the Oakland 25, and this time Horn got into the end zone, with a five yard pass to McGeorge.

Three Double Winners Share Racing Honors

Racing action picked up its tempo Saturday night at the Escanaba Speedway with three drivers capturing double victories with Bob Iverson of Hyde and Ron Paquette of Kingsford winning the action packed modified and sportsman features respectively and Mike Bubloni of Vulcan winning the sportsman semi-feature and one of the heats.

With rain threatening throughout the day, chilly temperatures, and a light mist at race time, the smallest crowd

Varnum Wins

Representative Charles (Chuck) Varnum, after a nip and tuck affair, found the gas pedal on the last lap and nosed out Dick Peterson in the special race at the Escanaba Speedway Saturday night. Varnum, driving Jim Barron's modified against Peterson's sportsman's car, held the inside curve all the way in winning the feature. Varnum commented after the race to the Daily Press Sports Editor Don Howes that he was a little nervous but did not burn out the clutch that someone (????) did in the news media race held this past summer... the news of that burnt clutch really gets around.

of the year, 1203, was on hand for the action.

Iverson captured the 20 lap feature, and only two restarts kept the competition close. Starting in the second row, he had the lead by the second lap and had moved out to a big lead when action was stopped on both lap 8 and lap 9 because of spinouts on the dry track. The restarts tightened up the cars, but Iverson continued running in the number one position and finished just ahead of point leader Ed Powley of Soo, Canada and Herb Iverson of Hyde who has been coming on strong the last month. It was Iverson's 17th win of the year on the Escanaba track.

He also captured the second heat, leading from the third lap on. Jim Barron of Flat Rock captured second, with Tom Chailier of Wells placing third.

Yelle Noses Out Hengesh

Bob Hengesh of Escanaba looked like a winner in the modified semi, but Allen Yelle of Sands passed him with two laps to go to pick up the checkered flag. Hengesh's car wasn't handling right, and on the 13th lap he went to wide coming out of corner two and Yelle shot by on the inside and crossed the finish line ahead of him and Barron.

The third heat was a close race and wasn't decided till near the end. Hubert Brazeau of Canada and Bob Blank of West Bend, Wis., battled for first and the two hooked up on the front straight-a-way on lap 8 and spun out causing a restart. When the green flag dropped, Blank shot into the lead and crossed the finish line just ahead of Powley and Jerry Richer of Schaffer.

Hengesh scored his third win of the year capturing the first heat, with Jim Cool of Escanaba second, while Dave Boileau of Escanaba won time trials for the first time this year with a time of 20:41.

Poquette Double Winner

The smooth driving Paquette was a double winner to set the sportsman pace. In the feature, he made it look easy, leading from the second lap on. He maintained a perfect groove and at the finish, had a good lead over second place finisher Pat Temple of Norway, third place finisher Larry Duford of Kingsford and Dick Peterson of Rapid River.

He also captured the third heat, moving from far in the back to the lead in only two laps, and last year's number one Norway driver won by a comfortable margin over Joe Haferkorn of Norway and Duford.

Mike Bubloni was also a double winner in sportsman action. The Vulcan native picked up victories in the semi-feature and the second heat. In the semi, John O'Polka of Hermansville gave him his only competition but never could pass him. In the heat, Bubloni had an easier time winning over Arne Anderson of Wells.

Duane Hamelin of Escanaba looked like a sure winner in the first heat, but apparently didn't see Paul Smith of Sands closing the gap, and with one lap to go Smith took the lead for his third win of the year. Time trial honors went to Haferkorn, with a clocking of 21:36.

There will be no racing in Escanaba on Saturday night because of the Norway fair. Races will be held Labor Day night, Monday, instead.

Bowling Notes

The annual meeting of the Escanaba Bowling Association will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Building at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Two Way Tie In Couples Event

The Mr. and Mrs. Golf Tournament at the Escanaba Country Club Sunday turned out to be a couples event — in more ways than one.

With husbands and wives playing as partners in the handicap best-ball event, there were two way ties for the top three places.

Noreen and Ernie Belanger and Sharon and Tom Neumann tied for first place with net 29. In a tie for second place were Donna and Dave Andrews and Maryann and Ivan Edwards, both with net 30. Tied for third place with net 31 were Tom and Carol Gregorie and Chet and Nan Farum.

A total of 36 couples participated in the event, which was followed by a cookout at the clubhouse.

Lions, Eagles Clash Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — Superstitious? Yes, admits Detroit Lion receiver Bill Malinchak who is now Good Old No. 29.

He'll admit it's sort of silly. But I'm a new man now," said Malinchak, about his New Orleans game, adding, however, "even if I did come up with a leg muscle pull."

Going into game against Philadelphia, Detroit boats a 2-1 exhibition record, while Philadelphia is 0-2.

More than 50,000 fans are expected for the game at Tiger Stadium.

In other exhibition games, the Lions lost the opener to Kansas City, 30-17, but then defeated Buffalo, 22-6. Philadelphia has lost to Oakland, 30-19, and to Buffalo, 35-20.

Bowling Notes

The Tuesday 7 p.m. bowling league will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Bowl-A-Rama. A representative for each team should be present and captains should also attend. Bowling will begin next Tuesday.

There will be a short meeting tonight of the Classic bowling league following the association meeting at the Chamber of Commerce building at around 9 p.m.
